

Meredith Matone is the Director of PolicyLab at Children's Hospital of Philadelphia (CHOP) and an associate professor of Pediatrics at the Perelman School of Medicine. In her work, Dr. Matone partners with community organizations and public systems to evaluate programming for families of young children. She received her Doctor of Public Health, specializing in child and adolescent health and development, from Johns Hopkins Bloomberg School of Public Health. Dr. Matone is a former Stoneleigh Fellow and an alumna of the Doris Duke Fellowship for the Promotion of Child Well-being.